Description
A farmstead, built before 1835.  The farmstead is named on Sanderson's Map of 1835. Buildings that predate the reign of Queen Victoria are considered to have qualities of age that justify their inclusion on the Local List. The farmstead is unlikely to date to before c.1700 (the "brick threshold").  No field assessment had been made of this building by the time of publication. The building has been included on the Local List on a provisional basis.

Description
A farmhouse, probably built in the late eighteenth or early nineteenth century. Altered in 1853, probably for Thomas Bailey. The farmhouse is faced in smooth render with stone dressings, beneath a plain tile roof with gable parapets. There is a central gabled porch with the datestone "TOB MDCCCLIII", flanked by vertical sash windows with wedge lintels. No contemporary farm buildings survive. Morley's open fields were enclosed in 1786. The farmhouse is named on Sanderson's Map of 1835. Buildings that predate the reign of Queen Victoria are considered to have qualities of age that justify their inclusion on the Local List.

Description

A house, built in 1873. Designed by Stevens & Robinson for Charles Schwind JP, chairman of Andrew Handyside & Co, iron founders. Later occupied by George William Crompton JP. The house is built of rockfaced stone beneath a gabled slate roof. The garden elevation features a central entrance door flanked by two-storey canted bays. A refectory block of 1982 links the house to a contemporary stable block.

The house was sold to the Derbyshire Farm Institute in 1947. College buildings to the north-east of the site are not of special interest.

The house may possess some special historic interest due to its close historic associations with Charles Schwind JP and George William Crompton JP, both of whom are figures of local interest.

Description
An early Victorian house, extended in c.1867. The house is built of red brick beneath a gabled slate roof with prominent ridge stacks. The garden elevation is two and a half storeys tall. There is a central gabled bay with bargeboards. This contains a single storey canted bay window. To either side are two tall window openings with squared lintels. To the left, the set back wing dates from the late nineteenth century. This was the home of Robert Sacheverell Sitwell (d.1891). This is an interesting example of an early Victorian small country house. As such, it may have qualities of age that justify its inclusion on the Local List.
